

CPCS CHANGES VENDOR INVOICE DEADLINES

As many clients are aware, Case In Point has been taking publicly funded cases throughout New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Florida for more than 11 years. Even though rates are capped by state law, CIP is proud to apply the same intense work ethic as in privately funded matters.

In this vein, CIP wants to take care to notify clientele that the Committee for Public Counsel Services in Massachusetts is cracking down on the time limit for vendors to submit invoices. Beginning this past summer, from the day any work is conducted, CIP has 30 days to enter it into the V-Bill site.

Case In Point has always taken care to enter invoices into the system within days. Thus, CIP will continue to appreciate the diligence of attorney clients in submitting required information as soon as possible. The documents necessary are a signed and dated order for funds and the NAC number.

Office Manager Michelle Carpentier states, "The earlier it's provided, the smoother the process becomes for everyone."

In addition to providing the billing requirements at the onset, Ms. Carpentier reminds that police reports, complaints, court transcripts, and instructions or theories from counsel help the assigned investigators as well.

THE JOYS OF HAVING A PROFESSIONAL INVESTIGATOR

Teamwork will always benefit the attorney/client relationship. Creativity and efficiency flows, while your practice grows.

INVESTIGATORS PREPARING FOR WINTER INFLUX

Unbelievably, 2011 is already drawing to a close and winter is nearing fast. Christmas and other holiday decorations are out in prepare for the season? As always, CIP investigators are working at high productivity and efficiency levels to prepare for the welcome influx of new stores, Halloween is in the rear-view mirror, and New England is already recovering from its first snowstorm of the season.

So what is Case in Point doing to prepare for the season? As always, assignments that inevitably come in over the holidays.

The attorneys CIP partners with work hard and earn themselves well-deserved time off and relaxation with their families. The best way to assure complete relief from the office while with family is to get a jump start on necessary investigations. CIP investigators are ready to tackle them so that January doesn't feel so jam packed.

WHY

CASE IN POINT?

As one of the largest private investigation firms in the Northeast, CIP can take more cases and larger investigations, provide specialized in-house training, and encourage crucial team work.

CIP CORP. OFFICE MOVES TO PURCHASED PROPERTY

For nearly 25 years, Case In Point has flourished throughout the Northeast and other parts of the country while working out of rented office space. However, even in these difficult economic times, the corporate office has found a way to move into purchased office space.

CIP President Peter Carl states "this will be a place we can stay for a long time while we continue to grow and explore new ventures in the world of private investigation."

Mr. Carl renovated the location at 50 Nashua Road in Londonderry, New Hampshire before moving in this past March.
